Course evaluation

A survey was distributed to students, both on paper and by email. Only one has been submitted. However, there are only six PhD students and we meet them regularly.

Course analysis

This was the first time the course was given in this format, so it is expected that a few things can be improved for the future. In particular the second seminar can be improved in terms of structure. The administration of the written exam was not adequate, which should be improved.

The work-flow of students are quite dependent that students collaborate. This seems to have been worked well in this course.

Overall, the mix of learning and assessment activities are instrumental and adequate for the course. In particular, it is adequate to have the oral assessment after the written exam, in this course.

Reflection and Conclusion

This was the first time the course was given in this format.

The format of the second seminar can be improved, as the administration of the written exam.
